Susan Wiener Myers

The JLP says good bye to a dear friend and volunteer

By Debbie Bedrosian Vozzo and Annamarie Geppert Hellebusch

Susan Wiener Myers, 84, a Main Line homemaker whose life's work became the restoration of the historic Fairmount WaterWorks, died of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease at Freedom Village in West Brandywine.

In the early 1970s, Mrs. Myers and her husband, George, were driving on the Schuylkill Expressway on their way to the Shore. Mrs. Myers, who had not grown up in Philadelphia, asked her husband about the crumbling portico buildings on the riverbank. From information he gave her and her own research, she learned that the Fairmount WaterWorks had been constructed in the 1800s to provide pure water for city dwellers.

For years, the facility, with its huge water wheels, turbines and pumps hidden in Greek Revival buildings, was one of the most visited sites in the United States. When new technology replaced the WaterWorks, the site was used for an aquarium and then an indoor swimming pool.

By the time Mrs. Myers began making inquiries, the WaterWorks had been abandoned by the city and was in a serious state of neglect. She once told a reporter that the crumbling buildings were "weeping eyes crying out for help."

She persuaded the Junior League of Philadelphia to establish a WaterWorks Restoration Committee, and she became chairwoman. "Though she was a volunteer, she treated the position like a 24/7 job," her son Jeffrey said. "She was determined to keep the buildings from collapsing into the Schuylkill River at a time when many thought they were a lost cause," he said.

"The first thing we did in 1974," Mrs. Myers told a reporter, "was to give the city $24,000 to keep the wet weather out. That bought us time." By 1992, she and members of the Junior League had raised more than $3 million. An additional $3.9 million was raised through grants and public funds.

On a chilly day in the 1980s, Mrs. Myers gave executives from a charitable foundation a tour of the WaterWorks and served them tomato soup from a thermos and a bag of pretzels. The group gave her $1.9 million. "I always wondered," she later said, "what the grant might have been if I'd brought along lobster bisque."

In the early days, Mrs. Myers organized Victorian Sundays at the WaterWorks featuring costumed entertainers, and sold photos of the WaterWorks she had made into laminated placemats. She also sold the mats at the Galaxy of Trees, an annual WaterWorks fund-raising event featuring elaborately decorated Christmas trees.

It would be more than 30 years, and several setbacks, including a fire that destroyed a newly restored ceiling, before Mrs. Myers would see her dream fulfilled. The restored WaterWorks is again a tourist attraction featuring an interpretive center with interactive exhibits and a restaurant.

A native of Kingston, Pa., Mrs. Myers earned a bachelor's degree in languages from Brown University. For six years she was a linguist and travel coordinator in New York for Nelson Rockefeller and his family.

In 1953, she married George C. Myers. The couple lived on the Main Line; in Chattanooga, Tenn.; in Atlanta; and then back on the Main Line, while he pursued a career as a quality control manager. For 31 years they lived in Berwyn before moving to Freedom Village in 1999. He died in 2007.

Mrs. Myers served on the residents committee at Freedom Village and organized trips to the WaterWorks. "She read two or three newspapers a day," her son said, and "subscribed to several preservation periodicals."

In addition to her son, Jeffery, she is survived by sons George Jr. and Gregory; a daughter, Laurie; a sister; and three grandchildren.

Donations may be made to the Susan Myers Restoration Fund, c/o Junior League of Philadelphia, 27 W. Lancaster Ave., Ardmore, PA. 19003.

President and Sustainer Chair Perspective

By Heidi Tirjan and Betsy Mallon

We are saddened by the loss of Susan Myers, a long time member of the JLP and "Special Sustainer". For so long, many of us heard the story of how Susan drove by the dilapidated WaterWorks buildings on her way to the JLP headquarters in Philadelphia and was moved to act so the buildings wouldn't slide into the Schuylkill River. Susan convinced the JLP to create the WaterWorks Restoration Committee which she chaired. (The committee was co-chaired by Virginia Maloney). Many of us heard about and saw the "famous" WaterWorks placemat that she carried with her everywhere in order to raise awareness and money for the crumbling buildings. (Betsy remembers Susan with her placemat at a provisional meeting long ago!)

We heard about Susan's perseverance with the City of Philadelphia, Water Department, Fairmount Park Commission and other organizations and the success of having the WaterWorks added to the National Register of Historic Places. We heard about funds being raised by way of the Galaxy of Trees celebrations each November. We heard about the various grants being procured and, all told, millions of dollars being raised for the various restoration projects at the complex. Others joined the JLP, including Ernesta Ballard and the Fairmount Park Conservancy, to continue the fundraising and restoration and raised a staggering $23 million dollars, but none of it would have happened were it not for Susan Myers.

This past September we had the opportunity to visit with Susan at the Third Annual Women of the WaterWorks Celebration. Although she was wheelchair bound, she had that sparkle in her eyes, a smile on her face and tears of joy as she gazed at the beautifully restored complex along with so many JLP friends. And we could feel the buildings smiling back as if to say, "thanks for caring."

Susan was an icon within the JLP. Her leadership and community activism will long resonate with us all. Next time you pass the WaterWorks, please take a moment to think of Susan Myers who spent more than 30 years of her life making sure we and the rest of the country would enjoy the splendor of the WaterWorks for years to come.

The WaterWorks is a lasting legacy for the Junior League of Philadelphia. With Susan's passing, a "Susan Myers Restoration Fund" has been created by her family and the JLP. Through this fund the JLP will continue to provide funds to the WaterWorks and other "in need" structures within Fairmount Park.

Letters Remembering Susan Myers...

On behalf of the Association of Junior Leagues International, I would like to extend our sympathy to the family of Susan Myers, the Junior League of Philadelphia and the City of Philadelphia. The passing of Mrs. Myers will leave a large void not only in her Junior League, but also in the many organizations and causes she supported in Philadelphia. She has certainly left a legacy of commitment to volunteerism for her Junior League and of vision for her community through projects such as the WaterWorks.

Thank you for making me aware of your League's loss.

Sincerely,

Debbie Brown Robinson, AJLI President

What very sad news. Mrs. Myers was a great champion of Fairmount Park never more so than when working on her beloved Fairmount WaterWorks. I had the pleasure of working with Mrs. Myers and other park staff on early WaterWorks restoration projects and I can tell you that she along with her colleagues in the League were the catalysts for the extraordinary restoration of the site today. I did read about her passing in the Inquirer and when it referenced the Galaxy of Trees, I had to laugh. Somehow Mrs. Myers (as only she could) got me involved in this project and we began holding the event at the Horticulture Center. My deepest sympathies to you and the Junior League of Philadelphia on the loss of an amazing (and most determined) woman, Susan Myers.

Warm regards, Kate

Kate Lapszynski, Director of Stewardship
Fairmount Park

This saddens me but also brings to mind her amazing tenacity and what she was able to accomplish for the City of Philadelphia. She is for me an icon in the JLP and the community in which she accomplished so much and I will continue to think of her fondly every time I see the WaterWorks.

Statements from JLP and WaterWorks:

Per Past President, Sally Hillyer:

Susan had been the Chair of the Outgrown Shop and was as zealous about that as she became about the WaterWorks. In the 1972 JLP Annual Report it said " Under the Chairmanship of Mrs. George C Meyers, the Sustainers collected merchandise, priced it, and manned a 4-day sale at the Outgrown Shop. The results of their efforts were seen in a total profit of $4729.45."

Beginning in 1974, Susan would try EVERY avenue to have the WaterWorks in the League consciousness and waving that famous placemat was part of it.

Per Sustainer, Clare Mackie:

Thank you so much for letting me know about Susan. I am saddened by the news, as I have known her for over thirty-five years. She was a terrific force already shaking up the establishment when I first joined the Junior League; she never gave up on her dreams, and never stopped working to make them come true. She was a great example to all of us that you can fight City Hall and you can accomplish anything you want to if you try hard enough. She will be missed.

Per Drew Brown, Manager Public Education Programs, City of Philadelphia Water Department:

Here at the City of Philadelphia Water Department, we have never forgotten Susan's tireless dedication to the restoration of the Fairmount WaterWorks. I had the privilege of working on that project beginning in 1985, by which time Susan and her WaterWorks Restoration Committee had captured the attention of City officials and raised most of the funds required for the project. Susan was unstoppable.

By asking a lot of questions and keeping my ears open, I was able to learn a lot about the history of the restoration project from Susan and others working on the project. I put that history on paper for a tour of Fairmount Park sites by Provisional's and Actives in September.

Future Leadership for the JLP

By Gabrielle Thorne

The purpose of the Nominating Committee is to ensure ongoing, effective leadership for the Junior League of Philadelphia. Leadership positions offer every Active member the opportunity for personal growth and development while making an important contribution to the JLP and the community. The Nominating Committee slates the board of directors, committee chairs, PAC members-at-large, nominating committee members (two-year term), member advisors and provisional advisors.

Please consider what positions you are willing to accept within our League. Take a moment to reflect on your experiences. Think about each of the committees on which you have served and how you have changed and grown because of your participation. Are you ready to put your experiences into action? Think about your future within the JLP. What would you like to accomplish? Where do your interests lie?

What skills can you share with others? This is the time to step forward. Go to our website and fill out the Nominating Form. If you have worked with an extraordinary woman, nominate her for a leadership position. Without input from membership, it is difficult for the Nominating Committee to determine the future leadership of our League.

We challenge you to step out of the ordinary and step into leadership. Each volunteer experience within the League offers a valuable training lesson. The JLP offers each of us the opportunities, challenges and rewards of leadership. Are you ready to continue to grow with us? We are ready to grow, learn and lead with you. Please take this opportunity to share your leadership skills and interests with the Nominating Committee. We look forward to serving with you. If you have any questions regarding leadership, please contact any member of the Nominating Committee: Kate Forester (chair), Kate Farnham, Susan Henley, Jill Jokelson, Jodi Kerr, Mary Kate LoConte, Marcelle Parrish, Gabrielle Thorne, and Amelia Warner. JL

Salsa Dancing with the Cultural Clinic – Muy Caliente!

Members of the Cultural Clinic spent an enjoyable afternoon on Saturday January 17, 2009 learning how to Salsa dance with nineteen seventh and eighth grade girls from Penn Alexander, Henry C. Lea, and Charles R. Drew Elementary Schools. The event took place at Brasil's in Old City, which provided the perfect place to perfect your dance moves as it had a mirrored wall.

The girls started off the day by making homemade salsa and enjoying a takeout lunch from Mexican Post. Then it was time to dance! Mike, our dance instructor, provided the origins and backgrounds of 4 different Latin Dances, as well as easy to learn steps that were a lot of fun. We learned how to Salsa, Bachata, Merengue, and Cha Cha. The girls really got into the dancing, especially when the lights were turned down and the music was turned up. Mike, along with one of his actual students, Natalie, treated the girls to a choreographed performance. Natalie has only been taking dance classes for a few months, so this illustrated how far you can come in a short period of time. The afternoon concluded with a fun game that allowed the girls to show off how much they'd learned. The girls really enjoyed the active afternoon of dancing. 📌

Are you an expert willing to share with others?

Attention all JLP members! Do you have an expertise/advice you are longing to share with the membership? Here's your chance! The EVT committee is hosting a week of workshops featuring the talents of our members called "Meet the Experts!" So if you work or have experience in any of the following fields and would like to be one of our panel of experts, please email Tammy Gray, tamettag@gmail.com, give a brief description of your specialty and contact information.

Workshops will focus on: Personal Finance, Fitness, Cooking, Women and children health, Scrapbooking/Crafting, Style/Fashion, Real Estate, Etiquette, Home décor.

Workshops will take place during the last week of April at various locations. If you are interested in hosting a training event in your home or place of business, please email tamettag@gmail.com, and let us know! 📌
